Nick,

Yes he told me he had been approached about noise monitoring but he declined.

Ok, I will let them know.

Our noise consultant spoke to [REDACTED] earlier this week about putting a noise meter in his garden one night but the polite way of describing the response is that he was told to place the noise meter where the sun does not shine!

He must be concerned that the results may show that there is not really a problem.

Nick,

As you are no doubt aware, we continue to receive allegations of vehicular movements, specifically by Brian Sindle transport, in the early hours of the morning. In addition these are alleged to be noisy and disruptive. I therefore intend to visit the site and surroundings in the early hours of tomorrow morning (15.09.2011). This is in order to experience as far as I am able the effect that any such movements are having. It might be that none occur of course, in which case I will need to return until such time as they do happen.

I am bringing this to your attention mainly for you to advise your staff at the security gate. I am not sure if I need to go into the site but it is to advise them that they might see someone in the vicinity, probably at about 3.30am. Please confirm that you will do so.

Many thanks,

Dave
