Hi

I understand stonehouse hardwick and quedgeley are the new dumping ground for houses but i am really aghast at whats going.

An additional houses are being built and another school in stonehouse. THE ROADS LITRALLY CANNOT COPE at the moment. All the work traffic is constantly queueing up already in that area what are you doing to improve the roads?!?!? There is traffic coming from dairy crest direction because of train tracks so that area is a no go. Its bad enough getting onto the bonds mill roundabout.

My partner works in the area and its already close to the dial to get in. She drops little one off at school..cant drop off off earlier because of school going in times and then to get into worl because pf existing traffic is a nightmare. She is lucky she gets in on time at moment and cant leave any earlier... so she will have to change her work time to adjust meaning losing an hours pay each week times 4. What the are highways and planning developers playing at? Build the roads and infraustructure to cipe before you build the houses!!!!
