

Estate Champions play a key role in improving the areas where our residents live by regularly checking grounds maintenance and communal cleaning within their estate or street. As part of the role, Estate Champions tell us their findings to help monitor standards and act where needed.

Estate Champions are vital in helping us create better living environments and a high standard of service.

No special experience is needed, just a commitment to helping keep your neighbourhood looking its best

What Estate Champions do:

- Regularly check estate grounds and communal areas
- Reporting findings, using online or paper forms
- Periodically meet with other Estate Champions to talk about how things are working and celebrate successes (optional)

What we are looking for:

- Basic IT skills, including communication via email.
- The ability to report findings
- Regular access to the internet to upload images of findings

What's in it for you:

- Actively make a positive contribution to your neighbourhood
- Develop your skills and knowledge of how estate management works
- Physical and mental wellbeing through walking around your community
- Pride in helping to improve your neighbours' satisfaction with their surroundings
- The chance to add your positive community involvement to your CV.
- Meeting people from other estates.

Our commitment to you:

- Basic training on conducting checks, identifying and reporting findings
- Informal in-person information sessions or Information pack (whichever is preferable)
- On-going support from Stroud District Council colleagues
- Travel expenses to meetings if required, in line with our Expenses & Incentives Policy

Level of commitment:

- Able to dedicate around 30 minutes a week to carry out inspections, though this can be more or less frequent depending on what feels appropriate for the area or the weather.
- We are looking for individuals who can provide detailed and informative reports, including photos where possible, to improve the quality of our services.
